44 STANLEY
EAT | DRINK | WORK | SHOP

Located in Milpark on the edge of downtown Johannesburg, precinct 44 Stanley is a mixed-use development, featuring a diverse assortment of food, drink and shopping outlets. As a hub of authentic experiences, 44 Stanley offers a unique day out for both locals and visitors, fusing downtown urbanism with a trendy sophistication. Developed in 2003 out of former industrial buildings left derelict in the 1930s, the precinct is the first of its kind in Johannesburg, attributing to its popularity and success. Structured of meandering lanes centred by shady courtyards, the busy complex is host to a diverse collection of local designers and speciality boutiques featuring everything from high-end fashion to unique collectable items. Amidst the shops lies a range of lively bars, cafes and restaurants proudly selling delicious and traditional food and drink to whet any traveller's appetite. This urban oasis exudes character and celebrates South Africa's distinctive cuisine and artistic culture.

The precinct brings a welcome alternative to the standard shopping mall, with the majority of the shops and restaurants independently owned and stocking high quality, locally sourced products. Visitors can browse the range of shops featuring vintage items, top fashion boutiques and creative art studios. When in need of refreshment, grab a bite to eat or relax in the olive tree garden with a glass of wine. The impressive number of restaurants and bars provide visitors with ample dining options, contributing to the precinct's captivating atmosphere. Evening events transform the precinct into an entertainment centre, with night markets, live music and late night shopping attracting visitors from all neighbourhoods. As an intriguing buzz of commerce, offset by an established music, performance and fine art scene, 44 Stanley is an exciting and high-end destination and a must-visit whilst in Johannesburg.
